

July 1, 2021

Cboe Global Markets completes acquisition of Chi-X

We are pleased to announce that Cboe Global Markets, a global market infrastructure provider, has completed its acquisition of Chi-X Asia Pacific. Please see the press release for complete details.

Adding Chi-X Asia Pacific to the Cboe network is an important step in Cboe's vision to become a truly global marketplace. Combining the markets we operate with Cboe's existing North American and European operations, will enable us to provide greater choice to you, our valued customers. There are many opportunities inherent in bringing our two companies together and we look forward to leveraging Cboe's core strengths as a leading global market infrastructure provider to further enhance our capabilities and help strengthen the efficiency, resilience and functionality of the entire Asia Pacific market.

We would like to express our sincere appreciation for the trust you've placed in us over the past 10 years. We have always strived to deliver consistent, cost-effective solutions to our clients through superior technology, service and trade execution performance, and we will continue to do so. Chi-X Asia Pacific has played a critical role in improving the trading infrastructure of the Japanese market, helping to increase overall liquidity and encourage participation. Rest assured, we remain committed to providing you with the first-rate service you've come to expect.

We are thrilled to have Chi-X Asia Pacific be a part of Cboe's global growth story. Together, we will embrace the new opportunities provided by this acquisition as we continue to deliver solutions that enhance your trading experience.