Cboe Japan Limited
Representative Director, Toru Irokawa

Rebranding to Cboe Japan Limited

Today, we are rebranding to Cboe Japan Limited.

There is no change in registration as a financial instrument business operator and license as a PTS operator. We are committed, as a company of Cboe Global Markets in both name and reality, to further contribute to the advancement of Japanese equity market.

1. Regarding our email address and website domain name

Emails from our company will be sent with the new email address domain (@cboe.com). If your organization has white lists established to filter incoming email by domain, please proceed to add it as a domain allowed by your filters. When contacting us, the old address will be valid for the time being. The website domain will be changed soon in the future and we will inform you of the details when confirmed.

2. Regarding alternation of our corporate name on documents and contracts

“Chi-X or チャイエックス” should be read as “Cboe” in all documents published to you such as Market Guides of each market operated by us and contract documents such as Product Contracts (Terms and Conditions, Product Manual, Order Form and Payment Schedule). The current documents and contracts continue to remain valid as there is no change to the legal entity that operates our markets and contracts with our counterparties.

3. Regarding the handling of personal information

Please note that we may share or provide personal information to the Cboe group. Location of Cboe group companies and personal information protection policy are available on our and Cboe group’s website, and personal information protection law in each county of our group companies is available on website of The Personal Information Protection commission.
